education in media and integration of vulnerable groups

Common curricula
for diversity:

education in media and integration of vulnerable groups

Introduction

In a rapidly changing and increasingly complex, globalized world, actions to avoid discrimination, promote equal access to goods, and services for all and foster a more inclusive society that ensures human rights for all vulnerable groups are more necessary than ever. The educational material financed and developed within the framework of the Erasmus+ European programme entitled ERMIScom project “Common curricula for diversity: education in media and integration of vulnerable groups”, has been presented in this eighth Intellectual Output in PowerPoint format that contains the presentation of the seven digital books.

It is a collective work, prepared by distinguished scientists, professors, and researchers of the higher education institutions participating in this university partnership programme (Bahçeşehir University, Turkey; Metropolia Ammattikorkeakoulu, Finland; University of National and World Economy, Bulgaria; Vrije Universiteit Brussel; the NGO E.K.O. Greece). The authors of the seven e-books, that were published and are available online to anyone interested, come from different individual fields of theoretical reflection on issues of discrimination, stereotypes, and prejudices, fake news and hate speech, European social policy actions, research and application of social entrepreneurship, as well as experiential methods for teaching these subjects, invite everyone to think critically and approach these subjects from a holistic point of view.

The educational material is addressed to students and teachers in the context of a possible Erasmus Mundus master’s programme that could be developed with the support of the partnering universities. However, it is at the same time a source of knowledge and information for many other programmes since the topics covered are interdisciplinary and aim, among other things, at media literacy training and awareness of means and techniques for the more attractive presentation of topics by workers in the field of communication studies.

The project was coordinated by the Communication and the Media Studies department of the National Kapodistrian University of Athens, and the seven e-books and a Companion of Non-Formal Education Methods and Activities are uploaded on the project's web page:

ermiscom.media.uoa.gr

We would like to thank all the authors for their contributions, the coordinators of the e-books, and the scientific and administrative staff of the universities for their support.

Finally, we would like to thank the Greek National Agency for the Erasmus+ programme and their staff for the financing of the project and the continuous support during its implementation.

IO1_STEREOTYPES AND PREJUDICES: XENOPHOBIA & RACISM

Stereotypes and Prejudices are two concepts that we lack significant information:

- stereotype involves beliefs about racial differences
- and prejudice is common against people who are members of an unfamiliar cultural group.

The two concepts are reproduced through communication and media tools towards vulnerable social groups and influence attitudes and behaviors, and often by reinforcing a negative public opinion towards groups of people with different ethnic origins, sexual orientations, disabilities, religious preferences, ages, and gender, among others.

This e-book, coordinated by the BAU university of Turkey, gives the students the opportunity to understand the concepts, discuss the effects of media representation and critically think about prejudice and discrimination from the perspective of both perpetrators and targets.

IO 2 _ F A K E N E W S & H A T E S P E E C H: REPRESENTATION OF VULNERABLE GROUPS IN THE MEDIA

Fake or “false” news from the Greek term “pseudos” means something “hidden”, or “camouflaged”. But other definitions are also given.

The emergence of social media reinforced the reproduction of misinformation and often empowered the negative stereotyping and stigmatization of vulnerable groups, because of their 'race', color, national or ethnic origin, age, disability, language, religion or belief, age, sex, gender identity, etc.

This e-book coordinated by the National World Economy University of Bulgaria gives the opportunity to the students and the teachers to better understand and define the terms and demonstrate how vulnerable groups are represented in the media.

IO3_SOCIAL ENTREPRENEURSHIP AND VULNERABLE SOCIAL GROUPS

The aim of this e-book coordinated by VUB is to:

- Familiarize students with the main concepts associated with social economy and social enterprises.
- Present business models in the sector of social economy to understand social enterprises holistically and their legal structures.
- Presents the theory of social enterprises and their impact on the social economy, the challenges faced by traditional entrepreneurs and particularly social entrepreneurs.
- Shows the basic concepts and relevance of business model innovation for Social Enterprises, different approaches to business models, and how they are designed, chosen, and changed by social entrepreneurs.
- Present strategies, requirements, and scaling models that may be useful for the reader to gain knowledge in this area of interest and how social enterprises may serve as a tool for inclusion in the refugee context.

IO4_VULNERABLE GROUPS AND TRAUMA

This e-book coordinated by the Department of Communication and Media Studies of the NKUA consists of four parts:

- The first part addresses the subject of defining vulnerability (ethnic origin, sexual orientation, disability, religious preference, age & gender), the barriers to inclusion, the cultural identities, and the relationship between personal and collective traumas
- The second part refers to the mediatization of traumatic experiences, the representations of trauma in the media, cinema, and news stories
- The third part consists of integrating the most vulnerable groups by investing in an inclusive and sustainable business model, and the
- Fourth part tackles the role of cultural mediators and carers supporting the integration of vulnerable groups and the ethical approach to vulnerability and traumatic events

IO5_INTEGRATION POLICIES FOR VULNERABLE SOCIAL GROUPS AND THE MEDIA

This e-book coordinated by the Department of Communication and Media Studies of the NKUA entails:

- The European and national integration policies of vulnerable groups. It provides knowledge on financial instruments and increasing flows that the EU has put in place to support integration policies
- It presents policy directions of the “Europe 2020” Strategy, the role of Structural Funds in enhancing social policies, and the priorities of the European Pillar for Social Rights for the new programming period 2021- 2027
- European policies for employment, policies to combat poverty, and measures adopted for the elderly and other social groups are also represented
- The drastic measures taken by the European Union to combat the health crisis and to stimulate the economy for vulnerable groups of the population, especially for refugees, Roma, and homeless people are also presented in the e-book.
- Another aspect tackled is how the social policy issues of vulnerable groups (LGTBQI women, children) are covered by the old and new media and finally, the impact of European funds on the inclusion of vulnerable groups is also presented.

106 FUNDS & GRANTS: SOCIAL INTEGRATION AND RIGHTS RELATED PROJECTS

This e-book coordinated by UNWE focuses on:

- The theoretical and methodological concepts and approaches of project management
- EU programs and funds with a special focus on financing vulnerable groups
- Special attention is given to the requirements, and beneficiaries of programmes for vulnerable groups
- The existing EU Funds and grants for supporting Vulnerable Groups are presented and best practices are provided to understand the functioning of the funds
- The book provide also theoretical knowledge and practical skills to manage the project cycle, the acquisition of knowledge and skills in programming, implementation, monitoring, and control

- This e-book coordinated by Metropolia University of Finland contains learning strategies and methods to tackle vulnerability and how to teach and learn the different concepts presented in the previous e-Books.
- It motivates students to build information, to read essays about creating and building information, and to employ collaborative learning as a tool for information building.
- Specific focus is given to understanding the different learning strategies, the challenges, and the stress factors related to studying.
- The Evaluation and feedback methods are also highlighted, including self-evaluation, peer evaluation, evaluation by faculty, objects of evaluation, etc., and the Life-long learning approach and the creation of a personal learning path.

IO8_COMMONCURRICULA:EDUCATION IN MEDIA AND INTEGRATION OF VULNERABLE GROUPS

The IO8 summarizes the seven e-books developed in one common curriculum for the development of an Erasmus Mundus Master Programme.

It contains the ppt presentations of all the books and facilitates teachers and students on the learning and teaching procedure.

CHAPTER 4

RACISM AND ETHNICITY IN THE MEDIA

Chapter Four "Racism and Ethnicity in the Media" examines both the historical construction of national identity and the emergence of racial identities and hierarchies through media representations and how media representations of race and ethnicity tend to misrepresent and underrepresent certain social groups, reinforcing pre-existing stereotypes and discriminations.

AUTHOR
ALEXANDROS MINOTAKIS
THE NATIONAL AND KAPODISTRIAN
UNIVERSITY OF ATHENS

AIM

The aim of the present chapter is to examine the way race and ethnicity are constructed through media representations and media practices.

Firstly, the historical construction of national identity will be briefly examined by analyzing the way that the rise of newspapers contributed to the development of national identities and specific practices of belonging that favored the foundation of the nation-state. In a similar vein, the emergence of racial identities and hierarchies through media representations will be examined.

Then, by turning focus to the contemporary media environment, it will be argued that racial and ethnic inequalities are persistent. Media representations of race and ethnicity tend to simultaneously misrepresent and underrepresent certain social groups, reinforcing pre-existing stereotypes and discriminations. Thus, media portrayals can harm the social and economic status of vulnerable social groups as well as shape their self-image and the way they construct their own identity.

EXPECTED LEARNING OUTCOMES

- To gain a fundamental understanding of the historical process of formation of nations
- To understand the rise of mass media and their role in this process
- To understand the notion of social construction and its implications for social studies
- To be able to discern media representations that are racist and offensive towards ethnic minorities
- To gain an understanding of the various ways that racism still has an effect on mass media

NATIONALISM AS A MEDIA DISCOURSE

Chapter Five "Nationalism as a Media Discourse" argues that nationalism and media content constitute the nationalistic discourse bidirectionally by analyzing how media and nationalism shape each other.

AUTHOR
MICHALIS TASTSOGLU
THE NATIONAL AND KAPODISTRIAN

AIM

The aim of the present analysis is to describe and explain how media and nationalism shape each other. This complex is going to introduce the reader to discourse theory, as well as to the ideology of nationalism. The former functions as the vehicle in which the latter gets in order to be propagated. However, media effects are not the same for everyone.

EXPECTED LEARNING OUTCOMES

- To gain an understanding of the complex between media and nationalism.
- To comprehend their interaction as a two-way process.
- To obtain knowledge about the basic principles of nationalism.
- To get introduced to how the new media as a public sphere reshape nationalism.

KEYWORDS

media, discourse, ideology, nationalism

CHAPTER 6

MEDIA REPRESENTATIONS OF DISABILITY

Chapter Six "Media Representations of Disability" focuses on how disability is constructed in the media and concludes by suggesting ways to combat discriminatory media discourse in an effort to enhance the integration of disabled people in mainstream media and promote a more balanced and accurate portrayal of disability.

SONIA KONTOGIANNI
THE NATIONAL AND KAPODISTRIAN

AIM

The aim of the present chapter is to examine the way disability is constructed in the media. Disabled [1] people are often depicted through a pathogenic lens which puts a strong emphasis on impairment ignoring the existence of barriers imposed by society. The chapter highlights the medical versus the social model of defining disability. By drawing on previous studies, it provides a brief overview of stereotypical portrayals in the media by exploring, whether the last perpetuate a typical and often problematic depiction of disability, leading to further stigmatization and exclusionary practices. The chapter concludes by suggesting ways to combat discriminatory media discourse in an effort to enhance the integration of disabled people in mainstream media and promote a more balanced and accurate portrayal of disability.

EXPECTED LEARNING OUTCOMES

1. To gain a deep understanding of the basic models related to disability
2. Foster awareness on media representation of disabled people
3. Enhance critical skills on identifying stereotypical depictions of disability in the media
4. Explore ways of promoting an accurate and balanced portrayal of disability

KEYWORDS

MIGRATION STUDIES: MEDIA REPRESENTATION OF REFUGEES AND ASYLUM SEEKERS

Chapter 8 "Migration Studies: Media Representation of Refugees and Asylum Seekers" examines the media representation of refugees and asylum seekers through different channels, while highlighting the importance of building a critical approach to address the migrant issue today across the countries.

ASSIST. PROF. ATANAS DIMITROV
UNIVERSITY OF NATIONAL AND WORLD ECONOMY

AIM

This chapter examines the media representation of refugees and asylum seekers through different channels. Particular focus is paid to the importance of building a critical approach to discourses on refugees and asylum seekers since one of the main reasons for their poor acceptance and integration in the host society is their misrepresentation by the media. The chapter also includes the case of Bulgaria in terms of media misrepresentation of refugees and asylum seekers. It is aimed at bringing the attention to the potential that false or misleading information can contribute to creating a certain discourse within the host society.

EXPECTED LEARNING OUTCOMES

- To gain a deeper and critical view on the media representation of refugees and asylum seekers.
- To understand the role media can have on both the migrants and host societies, thus how can then influence public discourses on refugees and asylum seekers.
- To address different approaches to discourses on migrants based on the national context.

Chapter 13: Social Entrepreneurship in the Bottom of the Pyramid context

Aim

In this chapter, the reader is expected to gain awareness about the relationship between social entrepreneurship and community media. To this end, definitions and examples are presented in this chapter, which will allow the reader to understand what community media is, its historical process, and how social impact can be promoted through these media. Additionally, some cases are presented as examples where the greatest beneficiary has been social entrepreneurship.

Chapter 2: Cultural Identities

Aim

- This chapter offers a general outline of the study of culture from early modernity to postmodernity. Culture is conceptualized as an integral part of personal as well as collective identities and the concomitant political and ideological struggles.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To gain a deep understanding of the different ways that culture has been theorized through modernity and postmodernity.
- To understand the ways that culture ties into the social construction of identities.
- To develop the notion of culture as a “field of struggle” where political and cultural identities intersect.

Chapter 3: Theorizing Trauma and its Cultural Dimension

by Michalis Tastsoglou & Alexandros Minotakis

“A trauma means an experience that disorganizes, disrupts permanently or temporarily the life of an individual or more”.

Brothers, 2008

Chapter 3: Theorizing trauma and its cultural dimension

Aim

- The aim of this chapter is to theorize the concept of trauma as both individual and collective, and to describe the role of media in transmitting trauma from the individual to the collective level. Cultures are shaped by traumatic events and experiences. These traumas are experienced individually, collectively and intergenerationally.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To gain a general understanding of the concept of trauma and the relationship between personal and collective/cultural trauma.
- To gain a deep understanding of the ways traumatic experiences are inscribed within cultural practices and are transmitted intergenerationally.
- To conceptualize the ways contemporary risk society causes traumatic even.

Chapter 4: Mediatization of Traumas

by Alexandros Minotakis & Michalis Tastsoglou

Chapter 4: Mediatization of Traumas

Aim

This chapter presents the ways that trauma is represented in mass media and the effect these representations have on traumatized persons and groups

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To gain a basic understanding of the concept of mediatization and the importance of media in contemporary societies
- To gain a deep understanding of media representations of trauma and the ways they are developed and framed
- To gain an understanding of the effect of media representations on the ways persons and groups process traumatic events

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To gain a basic understanding of the concept of mediatization and the importance of media in contemporary societies
- To gain a deep understanding of media representations of trauma and the ways they are developed and framed
- To gain an understanding of the effect of media representations on the ways persons and groups process traumatic events

Chapter 5: Base of the Pyramid

Aim

- The aim of the present chapter is to identify the Base of the Pyramid as a vulnerable group by analysing their characteristics.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- Compare the definition of vulnerable groups with the characteristics of the BoP.
- Recognize the multidimensional aspects of poverty.
- Understand the poverty mindset.
- Evaluate cases and best practices of projects implemented (successfully or not) for the integration of BoP groups, including case studies on social enterprises, circular economy, and other sectors.
- Ethical approach when targeting BoP.

Chapter 6: Inclusive Bussiness Models

by Abel Alan Diaz Gonzalez

Chapter 6: Inclusive Business Models

Aim

- The objective of this chapter is to introduce the concept, main principles, characteristics and dimensions of the Inclusive Business Models (IBMs). These business models are found useful to engage vulnerable and marginalized communities into businesses, in order to improve their living conditions, as well as for creating and capturing value for businesses. We introduce the different components of IBMs and explain how these businesses operate to fulfil their mission of inclusiveness for both the demand, and the supply side, in mainly poor and vulnerable contexts.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To understand inclusiveness as a business model component, as opposed to traditional elements of a business model;
- To realize the importance and potential of IBMs as tools to serve and work with vulnerable communities;
- To distinguish the main principles, types and characteristics of IBMS;
- To understand the importance of partnerships and support from different stakeholders in the process of establishment, development and scalability of IBMs.

Chapter 7: Sustainable Business Models

by Claudia Alba

SUSTAINABLE DEVELOPMENT GOALS

Chapter 7: Sustainable Business Models

Aim

- This chapter introduces the term Sustainable Business Models (SBMs). SBMs provide solutions to environmental, social, and economic challenges.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To learn about the Sustainable Development Goals
- To gain a deep understanding of the main concepts related to sustainable business models
- To understand in depth, the circular economy and its implications
- To improve the understanding of social enterprises.

Chapter 8: Social Integration of Culturally Different Social Groups

Aim

- This chapter examines the social integration processes of culturally different groups, especially those of migrant and refugee descent in their hosting societies and presents a multi-perspective approach that enables students to familiarize themselves with these processes. It reviews main integration policies on the international, European and national level. It aspires to familiarize students with the basic social integration theories and provide them with a solid knowledge on the essential features of social integration, such as decent housing, job opportunities and education. In addition, it presents instruments that facilitate the integration process, considering both the hosting societies that are mostly affected by migration flows and the cultural minorities at hand.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To understand the European and national integration policies in place.
- To get a thorough insight into the specific needs to be tackled to achieve social integration.
- To become familiarized with the various instruments of social integration policies and reflect on them critically.
- To understand the different types of social integration methods and approaches.
- To be capable of assessing innovative practices of social integration in different fields.

Chapter 9: Media Coverage of Vulnerability

by Aura Kaarivuo

Chapter 9: Media Coverage of Vulnerability

Aim

- This chapter discusses how vulnerable groups are represented in the media.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To gain a deep understanding of the main concepts related to media coverage of vulnerability
- To provide detailed information about media representations of vulnerable groups
- To gain an understanding of the diversity of vulnerable groups and their sub-groups
- To understand good practices and capacities for inclusive coverage of vulnerable groups.

Chapter 10: Media Coverage and Fake News on Vulnerable Groups

by Tirse Erbaysal Filibeli

Chapter 10: Media Coverage and Fake News on Vulnerable Groups

Aim

- The aim of this chapter is to clarify how media coverage of minority groups create a vicious cycle of disinformation, how disinformation causes discrimination and a vicious cycle of violence, and how news on vulnerable groups should be covered for a healthy society.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To gain a deep understanding of the main concepts such as disinformation, vulnerable groups, and vicious cycles of violence.
- To develop a critical understanding of media coverage of vulnerable groups.
- To exemplify how disinformation cause a gap in society.
- To detect disinformation and false content on vulnerable groups.

Chapter 11: Cultural Mediation I - Mediators and Carers

by Alexandros Minotakis

Chapter 11: Cultural Mediation I - Mediators and Carers

Aim

- The aim of this chapter is to examine the term of cultural mediation and the way it is applied to professional practices that contribute to the integration of refugee populations. The terms of cultural mediation and cultural mediator will be presented and analysed. The challenges involved in the process of mediation will be examined focusing on the importance of inter-cultural communication. Then, the transformation of cultural mediation into a professional field will be examined and the varied fields where professional cultural mediation is necessary will be presented. The challenges, skills and attitudes involved in becoming a professional cultural mediator will be examined, focusing on the need for a consistent and systematic training of cultural mediators. Finally, the issue of mediating the needs of refugee populations will be addressed. Refugees should not be expected to conform to the cultural practices of the host population and abandon their own cultural heritage in order to be accepted. A growing body of literature can guide cultural mediators on the pitfalls and challenges involved.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To gain a basic understanding of the notion of cultural mediation and its importance in contemporary societies.
- More specifically to understand the emerging field of professional cultural mediation.
- To develop a general outline of the skill sets that distinguish professional cultural mediators from volunteers.
- To gain an understanding of the complex strategies involved in assisting, as a professional cultural mediator, refugee populations.

by Michalis Tastsoglou

When a third actor mediates assigned to resolve a conflict between two sides coming from different cultural contexts.

Chapter 12: Cultural Mediation II – Communication Aspects

Aim

- The aim of this chapter is to analyse the position of cultural mediator through the lens of communication science and cultural studies. We examine the communication skills that facilitate mediators' work as they attempt to confront the obstacles presented by the meeting of people from different cultural origins.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To recognize the meaning of different communication models and their properties.
- To describe the four variables that a communicator has to take into account to achieve a goal.
- To solve mediation problems by applying fundamental communication skills.
- To apply the fundamental principles of different communication models in daily practice.
- To encourage both celebratory and supporting behaviours and to recognize the importance of understanding emotions and their expressions.

Chapter 1: European Strategies and Policy Measures for Vulnerable Groups

Aim

Economic growth, cooperation between Member States (MS) and social progress are key principles of the European Union (EU). While living conditions and social inclusion fall within the responsibility of each member state, soft law provisions and policy measures have been developed by the EU to promote social protection of vulnerable groups. This chapter reviews the European policies and policy measures from 2010 onwards. Specifically, it presents the main provisions of the Europe 2020 strategy and its development and progress. Moreover, it focuses on the goals of the European Pillar of Social Rights to be reached by 2030. Finally, it examines specific policies adopted by the Commission which complement the European Pillar, on children and persons with disabilities.

Expected Learning Outcomes

To define the EU's approach and responsibility on social measures for vulnerable groups

To review the main provisions of the Europe 2020 strategy and the European Pillar of Social Rights

To present specific policies adopted by the European Commission on two particularly vulnerable groups, i.e. children and persons with disabilities.

Chapter 2: Methods and Tools for Monitoring the Implementation of European Policies for Vulnerable Groups

Aim

- Effective policy coordination in the European Union (EU) is of utmost importance, especially after the Covid-19 pandemic and its socio-economic impact. Among the key frameworks for integrated surveillance and coordination of EU policies is the European Semester. Specifically, the Semester allows Member States (MS) to discuss their policies, exchange best practices, and agree on a common way forward. There is also a clear link between the European Semester and the EU cohesion policy funds. In other words, the Commission has recognised that a swifter recovery requires effective programming and focused investments. This chapter reviews the architecture of the Semester, i.e., its aim and structure, in addition to the Annual Growth Survey, National Reform Programmes, and Country-Specific Recommendations, with a focus on vulnerable groups.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To learn how the European Semester serves as a tool for monitoring the implementation of EU policies;
- To present the main structure of the Annual Growth Survey issued by the Commission;
- To understand the aim and main objectives of the National Reform Programmes;
- To learn about the logic behind country-specific recommendations issued by the Commission.

Chapter 3: European Policy on Asylum and Migration

*By Theodora Gazi,
National Kapodistrian
University of Athens*

---

Chapter 3: European Policy on Asylum and Migration

Aim

- This chapter reviews the history of the European Union's (EU's) legislation on asylum, in addition to the main provisions applicable today. It describes EU states' obligations to asylum seekers and recognised beneficiaries of international protection, according to the Common European Asylum System. Subsequently, it presents the changes proposed by the new Pact on Migration and Asylum, introduced by the European Committee in September 2020, along with its purpose and opinions expressed by scholars. Finally, it examines the role of humanitarian organisations in the provision of assistance and services to displaced populations.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To review the main provisions of the European legislation on asylum.
- To define the rights and obligations of asylum seekers and recognised refugees and beneficiaries of international protection.
- To present the changes proposed by the new EU Pact on Migration and Asylum.
- To learn about the role of humanitarian actors, such as international organisations and Non-Governmental Organisations (NGOs, in supporting the reception of migration flows.

Chapter 4: Employment

against Unemployment

*By Stavros Protopapas and
Dimitris Charalambis,
National Kapodistrian
University of Athens*

---

Chapter 4: Employment Policies: European Strategy against Unemployment

Aim

- The aim of the present chapter is to understand and evaluate the key policies of European Union (EU) for addressing unemployment in vulnerable groups. Toward this target, the broader, long-lasting European Employment Strategy (EES) is presented and current policies for specific groups of interest such as those of long-term unemployed or youth are analysed. In the last section, the whole policy is evaluated, and the anticipated challenges are reviewed.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To provide a comprehensive understanding of the European Employment Strategy.
- To define and present the vulnerable groups in the field of unemployment.
- To be able to quote relative statistical data and evaluate the specific policy of EU.
- To present the upcoming challenges.

Chapter 5: Social Policy for Fighting Poverty

*By Stavros Protopapas and Dimitris
Charalambis,
National Kapodistrian University of Athens*

Chapter 5: Social Policy for Fighting Poverty

Aim

- The aim of the present chapter is to examine the social policies for combating poverty in the Member States (MS) of the European Union (EU). In order to do so, it first clarifies the multifaceted concept of poverty, following the work of Anthony Atkinson. Then it explains the measures and the indicators that are used in the Union, namely the at-risk of poverty or social exclusion rate, the severe material deprivation rate, and the indicator persons “living in households with very low work intensity” and it examines their fluctuation during the last decade. The third section presents the legal basis and provides a historical account of supranational policies in the fight against poverty. The last section refers to the national minimum income schemes which, if coordinated, could lead to the eradication of poverty in the Union.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To gain a deep understanding of the main concepts related to poverty.
- To gain a deep understanding of measuring poverty by explaining the existent indicators and examining their drawbacks.
- To acquire knowledge about the population which lives in poverty or social exclusion in the EU and to learn and get familiar with the supranational relative policies in the fight against poverty.
- To be able to evaluate policies such as the minimum income schemes and to reflect on their necessary adjustments.

Chapter 6: Social Policy for the Elderly

*By Stavros Protopapas and
Dimitris Charalambis,
National Kapodistrian
University of Athens*

---

Chapter 6: Social Policy for the Elderly

Aim

- The aim of this chapter is to understand and evaluate the key policy of the European Union (EU) for addressing the challenging, growing demands of its ageing population. Towards this target, the demographic shift in Member States (MS) is demonstrated mainly through the old-age dependency ratio, the ratio which is used to measure the pressure on the working population to support those who are too old or too young to work. Consequently, the concept of “active ageing” which is found at the core of many, relative EU policies is comprehensively analysed. In the last two sections, the national pension schemes and their effectiveness are examined and the needs for health and long-term care for European seniors are reviewed.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To gain an understanding of demographic transition in the MS of the EU and of the anticipated challenges.
- To learn the concept of “active ageing” and study its criticisms.
- To delve into the concept of pension, understand the national pension schemes in Europe, and become aware of their nexus with public expenditure.
- To understand the present demands of European seniors and get familiar with the new forms of caregiving.

Chapter 7: EU Response to the Pandemic Crisis

*By Stavros Protopapas and
Dimitris Charalambis,
National Kapodistrian University of Athens*

Chapter 7: EU Response to the Pandemic Crisis

Aim

- The aim of the present chapter is to examine the responses of EU to the pandemic crisis. The first EU responses to the identification of a novel coronavirus which could be transmitted from human to human, are described in the first section. The second section deals with the conflicts and the relative negotiations between the MS during the second quarter of 2020, specifically from the Middle of March to the Middle of June. It details the actions and the events, aiming to provide a deep understanding of the gradual shift of the political climate between MS from harsh antagonism to relative appeasement. The results of this delayed consensus are briefly analyzed in the third section. The last part focuses on the recovery plan, which was decided in July 2020 under the German presidency, namely the Next Generation EU, which coupled partially with the Multiannual Financial Framework 2021-2027, aim at repairing the immediate economic and social damage brought about by the coronavirus pandemic and rebuilding a post-Covid-19 Europe.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To gain a deep understanding of the EU responses towards the pandemic crisis.
- To get familiar with the difficulties of consensus building in European Union.
- To acquire extended knowledge about the recovery plan, the NextGeneration EU.

Chapter 12: Social Policies for Romani People in the Media

By Ani Arutuynyan and Atanas Dimitrov, UNWE

Chapter 12: Social Policies for Romani People in the Media

Aim

This chapter deals with the challenges to Romani (also referred to as Roma) integration in the European Union (EU). It pays particular attention to some social policies, as well as to how Romani people are described by the mainstream media. Concerning this, a case study is also included. Students are expected to become familiar with the main challenges facing both the governments of the EU Member States (MS) and their societies when it comes to Roma integration. In this way, they will have an additional tool to fight prejudice, populism, and racism at the local, national, and regional levels. The chapter also sheds light on some of the main EU documents regarding the Roma's inclusion in the political, economic, social, and cultural life in the MS.

Expected learning outcomes

- To understand the challenges to Roma integration at the European level.
- To comprehend the media's role in presenting Romani people.
- To explore the EU integration policy in terms of Romani people.

Transformative Methodological Approach - Teaching, Training, Learning

ErmisCOM - IO7

Introduction to IO7

Aims:

- to introduce the main pedagogical approaches to modern learning, such as constructivism, cognitive and meta-cognitive skills, and phenomenon-based learning.
- to share the overall knowledge and experiences gained during the ERMIScom project and the results for piloting the IO:s 1-6
- to introduce the idea of lifelong learning and the applications of digital learning

Chapter 1: Constructivism and Meta-cognitive Skills in Learning

Chapter 2: Collaborative Learning and Interdisciplinarity in Higher Education

Chapter 3: How to Approach Complicated Topics in a Media Class: Stereotypes and Prejudices

Chapter 4: Fake News & Hate Speech: Representation of Vulnerable Social Groups in the Media

Chapter 5: A Navigation Chart for Teachers and Trainers to Leverage Entrepreneurial Universities for Social Entrepreneurship

Chapter 6: Teaching and Learning Methods Applied on the Module “Vulnerable Groups and Trauma”

Chapter 7: Teaching and Learning Methods Applied on the Module “Social Policies for Vulnerable Groups and the Media”

Chapter 8: Teaching and Learning Methods Applied on the Module "Management of Projects in the Field of Migration and Refugees"

Chapter 1: Constructivism and Meta-cognitive Skills in Learning

Aim

The aim of the present chapter is to familiarize the main concepts of constructive socio-constructive approaches to learning. This chapter will introduce the whole chapter 7 and form the basis of further subchapters. Chapter 7 will give an overview of different approaches to learning and helps to enhance the readers capacity learning and/ or teaching complex entities such as this book is. The chosen topics constructivism, socio constructivism and meta-cognitive skills in this subchapter are more in the nature of conception of learning which will form base for more practical methods for learning and teaching.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To gain a deep understanding of the main concepts related to constructivism
- To gain a deep understanding of the main concepts related to socio-constructivism
- To gain an understanding of the main concepts related to meta-cognitive skills
- To provide an overview of some of the main applications of constructivism and socio-constructivism

Chapter 1: Constructivism and Meta-cognitive Skills in Learning

Concepts of constructivism and socio-constructivism are the base for modern learning view

Understanding cognitive and metacognitive skills and cognitive strategies help students and teachers to understand learning and get better results

Problem based learning is one of the best known applications for modern learning.

Phenomenon based learning offers another feasible holistic approach

Chapter 2: Collaborative Learning and Interdisciplinarity in Higher Education

Aim

The aim of the present chapter is to present the concepts of collaborative learning and the benefits of interdisciplinarity in higher education.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To gain a deep understanding of the main concepts related to collaborative learning
- To understand the benefits of interdisciplinarity in higher education
- To gain knowledge on how to apply these pedagogical methods in teaching and learning

Chapter 2: Collaborative Learning and Interdisciplinarity in Higher Education

Global, wicked problems require new approaches and methods for both teaching and learning.

Collaborative and interdisciplinary learning combined has proven to be effective tools for enhancing learning outcomes.

Collaborative and interdisciplinary learning requires preparations, because not all learners have experience and/or sufficient capacity for learning in such environments

Chapter 3: How to Approach Complicated Topics in a Media Class: Stereotypes and Prejudices

Aim

The aim of the present chapter is to explain how the chapters in Intellectual Output 1 are pedagogically structured and how they are supposed to create learning. With the basic information and answer to these questions, how the content and activities offer learners and trainers an opportunity to work on critical thinking skills and enhance cooperative learning skills by finding the knowledge inside the group of learners. These approaches which have been intended in this IO help the trainers balance the ratio of teacher talking time and learning talking time.

Expected Learning Outcomes

The reader will be able to:

- identify how the content is structured coherently and
- comprehend how different theoretical approaches are used while structuring chapters,
- understand how the content is mutually complementary,
- practice how the activities are used in the physical or online classroom settings,
- will develop a critical approach while analyzing media content on vulnerable groups.

Chapter 3: How to Approach Complicated Topics in a Media Class: Stereotypes and Prejudices

In IO 1, there are some points to take away from learners point of view

Learners are dealing with their personal beliefs and experiences, which leads to emotional reactions to the content

Learners who recognize stereotypes and their own prejudices can benefit from their stand, gain objectivity and apply critical thinking for the subject

Collaborative learning is recommended

Chapter 4: Fake News & Hate Speech: Representation of Vulnerable Social Groups in the Media (IO2)

Aim

The aim of the present chapter is to explain the main topics in intellectual output 2: Fake News & Hate Speech: Representation of Vulnerable Social Groups in the Media. A brief definition of the analysed topic will be given as well as teaching approaches, exercises and assignments given to the students during the piloting phase of the project at the University of National and World Economy. The main sources of information and teaching sources will be given as well learning outcomes and skills the student will acquire during the training in these topics.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To gain understanding of the main concepts of fake news and disinformation;
- To gain understanding of the main concepts of hate speech;
- To gain understanding of the main concepts of vulnerable groups and their representations in traditional and social media;
- To gain knowledge of the historical and temporary teaching methods in the field of media and communications in higher education;
- To gain knowledge of the experience of teaching the above topics to M.A. level students in media and communication;
- To explore and use case studies as a source for in-class activities and course assignments.

Chapter 4: Fake News & Hate Speech: Representation of Vulnerable Social Groups in the Media (IO2)

Offers context for learners and teachers, why is it important to know the evolution of media, media theory, stereotype knowledge, intercultural knowledge and knowledge of hate speech and fake news.

Problem-based approach is encouraged

Emphasizes enhancing the understanding of modern media platforms and audience involvement

Focuses on media representation and the analysis of it

Chapter 5: A Navigation Chart for Teachers and Trainers to Leverage Entrepreneurial Universities for Social Entrepreneurship (IO3)

Recognizes common challenges of universities teaching social entrepreneurship such as gravitational pull towards commercial approach and integration of theory and practise.

Offers good variety of methods for teaching and learning social entrepreneurship

Integration of R&D, technology and commercial entrepreneurship activities are encouraged

Chapter 6: Teaching and Learning Methods Applied on the Module “Vulnerable Groups and Trauma” (IO4)

Aim

The aim of this chapter is to define a theoretical framework on teaching strategies that could be useful in teaching vulnerable groups managing traumatic experiences. The concept of empathy is central in this chapter, while it is the key factor for a mediator in order to be in their shoes. Regarding the teaching and learning techniques, the chapter focuses on examples of peer learning and role playing, which can strengthen the interaction in a class with the ultimate goal of experiential learning.

Expected Learning outcomes

- To understand the importance of the skill of empathy when dealing or teaching vulnerable groups.
- To learn about emotional intelligence inter alia.
- To approach listening as the half of the whole communication process.
- To practice peer learning methods.
- To get familiarized with role-playing as an effective educational technique.

Chapter 6: Teaching and Learning Methods Applied on the Module “Vulnerable Groups and Trauma” (IO4)

Empathises the importance of the skill of empathy when dealing with or teaching about vulnerable groups.

Recognition of learners emotional intelligence and encouraging it in the learning process

Peer learning as a method/strategy utilizing emotional intelligence, empathy and listening

Roleplay and drama-based pedagogy for teaching and learning vulnerability and trauma

Chapter 7: Teaching and Learning Methods Applied on the Module “Social Policies for Vulnerable Groups and the Media” (IO5)

Aim

The aim of this chapter is to define a theoretical framework on European social policies for vulnerable groups and how they are presented in the Media. Subjects regarding the European policies to enhance employment, fighting poverty, integration policies for refugee/migrants, policies to combat discrimination of women, children and the elderly are also treated in the book. The pandemic crisis and how it affected the vulnerable groups in European Member states and third countries are also treated. The concept of knowledge building and the objective of understanding the bigger picture of European social policies by the students are central in this chapter. Regarding the teaching and learning techniques, the chapter focuses on examples of comparison of social policies addressed to selected vulnerable groups and the preparation by the students of written, visual, or multimedia material on given subjects to demonstrate European social policies for vulnerable groups and their representation in the Media.

Expected Learning outcomes

- identify how the content is structured
- which specific EU Social Policies for Vulnerable groups are presented
- understand how the content is mutually complementary
- practice on the specific teaching and learning activities of Knowledge based learning and critical thinking
- how the activities are used in the physical or online classroom settings,
- develop a critical approach while analyzing media content on EU Social Policies for Vulnerable groups

Chapter 7: Teaching and Learning Methods Applied on the Module “Social Policies for Vulnerable Groups and the Media” (IO5)

Suggests applying knowledge-based learning and knowledge-building approach to gain an understanding of the topic that consists of vast amount of information.

Various methods can be applied around the knowledge-based learning process in order to awaken motivation and keep the learners focused

Requires applying critical thinking

Chapter 8: Teaching and Learning Methods Applied on the Module "Management of Projects in the Field of Migration and Refugees"

Aim

The purpose of this chapter is to define a theoretical framework for teaching methods that can be useful in the training of migrants and refugees. Traditional methods - direct method, audio-linguistic method, as well as interactive teaching methods such as discussion, coaching, project method and other methods based on communication - are reviewed. In this way, one learns through experience and knowledge.

Expected learning outcomes

- To understand the importance of empathy skills in working or teaching vulnerable groups of refugees and migrants.
- To build knowledge based on experience-trial-experience.
- To use in practice a project method in training for project management in the field of migration and refugees.
- To get familiarised with coaching as an effective learning technique.

Chapter 8: Teaching and Learning Methods Applied on the Module "Management of Projects in the Field of Migration and Refugees"

Project management skills may be challenging to learn in strictly academic learning environment

Improving management skills by coaching is suggested

Coaching will primarily promote the effectiveness, training and development of a person

Chapter 9: Lifelong Learning and Digital Learning

Aim

The aim of the present chapter is to provide definitions and insight into lifelong learning and digital learning. Lifelong learning is recognized as a focal factor for individuals and communities to help them acquire the know-how to participate fully in society. Digital learning is one of the main concepts enabling efficient learning, also in a lifelong learning context. There are challenges globally to achieving adequate access to digital learning, but the progress seems promising.

Expected Learning Outcomes

- To gain an understanding of lifelong learning
- To gain an understanding of digital learning
- To understand the connection between digital learning and lifelong learning
- To understand the factors and challenges under digital learning

Chapter 9: Lifelong Learning and Digital Learning

Lifelong Learning is and will be one of the cornerstones for development of societies.

LLL as a strategy enhances the resilience of individuals, communities and in the world of rapid changes and the challenges of sustainable economic growth and development.

LLL is also a systemic concept that enhances the utilization of whole society's capacity.

Digital learning provides limitless opportunities for learning in all phases and forms of learning, which strongly supports the idea of LLL
